

Evi Steyer is Moving to Iowa for January

Tom Steyer's daughter, Evi, will be spending all of January in Iowa.

(Des Moines, IA, Jan. 1) A month out from the caucus, it's all hands on deck to persuade voters and turn them out on caucus night. The entire Steyer family is feeling the momentum on the ground in Iowa, and as family of organizers, Evi is excited to join the team in Iowa for the month of January. Evi has been living in London where she works as an investor in regenerative agriculture practices, similar to the work that her parents have been doing at TomKat Ranch. Evi said this about her upcoming trip:

"I'm so excited to be returning to Iowa to spend time meeting community members, learning more about innovations in agriculture, and eating pork tenderloin sandwiches! It's been incredible to see my dad engage with some of the most dedicated, civically minded voters in the country. Alongside the incredible organizers on TeamTom, I know that we can create a movement of people ready to act urgently on climate."

Press interested in talking with Evi about her work in Iowa should reach out to leah.haberman@tomsteyer.com